Dear General Walters:

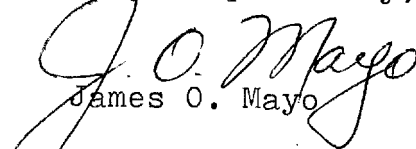

To-day I finished Intelligence Refresher and am preparing for full-time Russian Refresher, starting Monday.

Having finished the course I can now say without doubt that the day spent with you and your staff was the most valuable part of the entire course. Exceedingly competent senior officers provided the reassurance to which you alluded in your graduation speech. Concurrently, they provided vast quantities of essential information.

Your luncheon was the high-light. It was a delightful interlude. More importantly, it was exceedingly informative. I shall long remember your approach to attache affairs and to the duties of the intelligence community.

Many thanks to you and your staff. I look forward to the opportunity to visit with your staff again next April, just prior to departure.

Very respectfully,

James O. Mayo
